IPE Global -Centre for Knowledge and Development (IPE-CKD) a not-for-profit knowledge management arm of IPE Global, organised a workshop at India Habitat Centre on gender equality and women’s rights in workplaces on the occasion of International Women’s day. The workshop discussed issues that impact women’s opportunities to engage in work and inhibit gender equality at the workplace, cutting across sectors. Aligning itself with the UN theme for Women’s Day - ‘#BalanceForBetter’ the workshop solicited the participation of policy and decision makers in public and private organisations, academia and researchers, international agencies and eminent representatives from organisations committed to the issues of gender equality. The discussion had two broad thematic concerns focussing on:

Ensuring equal opportunities for the employment and professional development of women.

Making the workplace free from sexual harassment and discrimination and ensuring the safety and dignity of women.

Towards this end, IPE-CKD has developed and tested Gender Audit Tool-Kit that can be used by organisations to appraise their own processes and policies and to evaluate whether they ensure equality of status and opportunity to women and safeguard them against discrimination, violence, indignity, exploitation and harassment.
